SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

The Great Unfailing SPECIFIC FOR Liver Complaint.

THE SYMPTOMS OF LIVER COMPLAINT are uneasiness and pain in the side, sometimes pain in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism; the stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; bowels, in general, costive, sometimes alternating with lax; the head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation; considerable loss of memory, with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done; often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the Liver is generally the organ most involved.

REGULATE THE LIVER, AND PREVENT Dyspepsia, Constipation, Jaundice, Bilious Attacks, Chills and Fever, Headache, Colic, Depression of Spirits, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Piles, etc.

Tonic, Alterative and Cathartic!

Simmons Liver Regulator, purely vegetable, is the medicine generally used in the South to arouse the torpid Liver to healthy action.

It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy on the liver and kidneys.

The action of the Regulator is free from nausea or griping. It is most effective in starting the secretions of the Liver, causing the bile to act as a cathartic. When there is an excess of bile in the stomach, the Regulator is an active purge; after the removal of the bile it will regulate the bowels and impart vigor and health to the whole system.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT.

The struggle is ended at last, and the brave man who with unwavering courage combated death for eighty days, has sunk to rest, leaving a nation in tears. It is marvelous that he had so long borne himself against such a combination of ills, and maintained hope and faith under continued pain and weakness. With such steadfast heart and unbending will had he faced the grim adversary, that the sympathy and admiration of his countrymen grew with his sufferings. It has seemed best to the Almighty that the life for which thousands have supplicated should end, and it only remains for the people to submit to the decree with decorous grief. There is no doubt that the sorrow for President Garfield's death is genuine and sincere. Struck down in the very prime of life and just at the beginning of his administration of the highest office in the people's gift, his passing away is peculiarly affecting. His death was not wholly unexpected, though perhaps more sudden than was generally anticipated. In the White House it was evident that he was steadily failing and when he was removed to Long Branch on the 6th of September, it was believed that there would be a marked improvement. This belief proved to be untrue, and hope steadily declined until the final moment came.

The President breathed his last at 10:35 on Monday night. Up to the last moment he showed as true, tried courage as ever was seen at the cannon's mouth. If ever man stared death resolutely and valiantly in the face it was James A. Garfield. About 10 o'clock Attorney General MacVeagh sent his despatch to Minister Lowell. At that time the President was lying quietly. Dr. Bliss had just left him and found his pulse 106, with all the conditions promising a quiet night. The doctor asked him if he was feeling at all uncomfortable, and he answered that he was not. After that he fell asleep. Dr. Bliss then retired to his room across the hall, leaving General Swaim and Colonel Rockwell with the President. At about fifteen minutes after 10 the President woke up and said to General Swaim, who was the nearest to him, "I am suffering," and then, after a pause, with intervals between each word, "great pain; I—am—suffering—great—pain."

As he spoke he laid his hand upon his heart. Possibly he may have meant to indicate his lungs.

Dr. Bliss was immediately called. When he entered the room he found the President unconscious and substantially without pulse. His eyes were open, however. The action of his heart was almost imperceptible. Dr. Bliss said at once that the President was dying and directed that Mrs. Garfield be called into the room and Doctors Agnew and Hamilton sent for. He remained in a dying condition until 10.35, when he was pronounced dead. His death was scarcely expected by any members of the family excepting Mrs. Garfield, who had been warned to anticipate the worst. She was with him, kneeling by the bedside and holding his hand, as, with the paleness stealing over him and a smile upon his lips, his immortal spirit winged its flight.

A few minutes afterwards, when the members of the Cabinet had arrived, Mr. MacVeagh sent the following despatch to Vice-President Arthur:

"It becomes our painful duty to inform you of the death of President Garfield, and to advise you to take the oath of office as President of the United States without delay.

"If it concur with your judgment we will be very glad if you will come here on the earliest train to-morrow morning.

WILLIAM WINDOM,
Secretary of the Treasury.
W. H. HUNT,
Secretary of the Navy.
THOMAS L. JAMES,
Postmaster General.
WAYNE MACVEAGH,
Attorney-General.
S. J. KIRKWOOD,
Secretary of the Interior."

The sad news was telegraphed to all parts of the country and in every city, town and village bells were tolled, flags were draped and citizens with sad dened faces discussed the solemn event with subdued voices. Business was practically suspended on Tuesday; all public celebrations and assemblages for pleasure abandoned. In New York the theatres and other places of amusement will be closed until after the funeral.

It is a singular fact that the President died on the eighteenth anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga, in which he bore a conspicuous part.

We give herewith a brief biographical sketch of the dead President; James Abram Garfield was born at Orange, Cuyahoga county, O., November 19, 1831; educated at Hiram Eclectic Institute and Williams College; was graduated from Williams in 1856, with metaphysical honors; Professor of Latin and Greek and President of Hiram College till 1859, when he was elected to the Ohio State Senate; August 16, 1861, mustered into the service as lieutenant-colonel of volunteers; Colonel Forty-second Ohio Volunteers, October 5, 1861; Brigadier-General January 19, 1862, and Chief of Staff to Rosecrans; elected to Congress from the Nineteenth Ohio District, October, 1862, and re-elected until 1878, serving on the Military Committee, the Committee on Ways and Means, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency (1871), Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations (1871), Republican candidate for Speaker, 1876, 1877, 1878; nominated to the Presidency by the Republican National Convention at Chicago, June 7, 1880; elected President over Winfield Scott Hancock November 2, 1880, by 214 votes to 155, carrying nineteen out of the thirty-eight States, and receiving 4,442,950 votes on a total poll of 9,204,428; inaugurated March 4, 1881 Married in 1857 Lucretia Randolph, by whom he had five children who survive him—Harry, James, Mary, Irwin and Abraham.

The following arrangements for the funeral services have been ordered by the cabinet and are given to the press for the information of the public. The remains of the late President of the United States will be removed to Washington by a special train on Wednesday, September 21, leaving Elberon at 10 a. m. and reaching Washington at 4 p. m. Detachments from the United States army and from the marines of the navy will be in attendance on the arrival at Washington to perform escort duty The remains will lie in state in the rotunda of the capital on Thursday and Friday and will be guarded by deputations from the executive department and by the officers of the senate and house of representatives. Religious services will be observed in the rotunda at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. At 5 o'clock the remains will be transferred to the funeral car, and be removed to Cleveland, Ohio, via Pennsylvania railroad, arriving there Saturday at 2 p. m. In Cleveland the remains will lie in state until Monday at 2 p. m., and be then interred in Lake View cemetery. No ceremonies are expected in the cities or towns along the route of the funeral train beyond the tolling of bells. Detailed arrangements for the final sepulture are committed to the municipal authorities of Cleveland, under the direction of the executive of the state of Ohio.

(Signed) JAMES G. BLAINE.
Secretary of State.

At five minutes of 2 o'clock Tuesday morning General Arthur took the oath of office as President, which was administered by Judge John R. Brady of the N. Y. Supreme Court. Only two or three friends—Police Commissioner French, Elihu Root, and others—were present.

A post mortem examination of the body of President Garfield was made on Tuesday in the presence of Drs. Hamilton, Agnew, Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn, Andrew H. Smith, of Elberon, and Acting Assistant Surgeon D. S. Lamb of the Army Medical Museum, Washington. The operation was performed by Dr. Lamb. It was found that the immediate cause of death was a secondary hemorrhage from one of the arteries adjoining the track of the ball. The blood ruptured the peritoneum and nearly a pint escaped into the abdominal cavity. The ball had passed through the spinal column. A long suppurating channel extended from the external wound between the loin, muscles and the right kidney almost to the right groin. This channel, now known to be due to the burrowing of pus from the wound, was supposed during life to have been the track of the ball.

On Tuesday afternoon President Arthur went to Elberon and paid a brief visit of condolence and respect to Mrs. Garfield. He then returned to New York. On Wednesday morning he went in a special car to Elberon where it was attached to the funeral train conveying the body to Washington.

The embalming of the body took place at 1 p. m. on Tuesday A saturated solution of arsenic was injected into the arteries, followed by a similar solution of chloride of zinc. To the latter a small quantity of aniline was added.

Mrs. Garfield has received the following despatch from the Queen of England:

Mrs. Garfield, Long Branch:—Words cannot express the deep sympathy I feel with you at the terrible moment. May God support and comfort you as He alone can.

[Signed] THE QUEEN,
Balmoral Court.

The President's mother was told of the death on Tuesday morning. At first she was very much shocked, but soon came to and talked calmly. "It is probably all for the best," she said. And then suddenly observed, "It is not possible that my son James is dead. I don't wish to live any longer. I will soon be with him."

Despatches from all parts of the State announce the tolling of bells, draping of houses and cessation of public and private business. All over the country the same sorrow is felt and the same observance followed. In England the Prince of Wales, Earl Granville the secretary of Foreign Affairs, and other prominent personages in England and on the continent have expressed their grief.

The body is now lying in State at Washington. This afternoon services will be held in the rotunda of the Capitol.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Chester Allan Arthur, who became the twenty-first President of the United States on Tuesday, was born in Franklin county, Vermont, October 5th, 1830. His father, the Rev. Dr. William Arthur, a Baptist clergyman, emigrated to this country from the County Antrim, Ireland, in his eighteenth year, and died October 27, 1875, in Newtonville, near Albany. He was educated at Union College Schnectady, graduating in 1848. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1853. He married a daughter of Lieut. Herndon, U. S. Navy, and she died in January, 1880. Mr. Arthur has been a member of the Republican party from its organization. He has held offices under the New York State and city governments and was appointed Collector of the Port of New York by President Grant November 20th, 1871. He was subsequently re-appointed and was removed by Hayes July 12, 1878.

Mr. Arthur is a man of superior physique and commanding presence. He is fully six feet in height, broad shouldered, deep chested, athletic and prepossessing in countenance and figure. He retains much of the high culture and literary taste received from a scholarly parentage and acquired by education.

Senator Beck of Kentucky, is one of the kind of Democrats that might with great benefit be eliminated from the party. It will be remembered that he was one of the Democratic Senators who supported Stanley Matthews for the Supreme bench. This fact should be born in mind by the members of the Kentucky legislature before whom he is to come as a candidate for re-election. The New York Sun says that Beck was among the most ferocious denouncers of the Great Fraud in 1876. Yet Hayes was hardly warm in office before he procured for his son-in-law promotion in the Marine Corps over the heads of nearly fifty seniors in rank. He was open to conviction then and denounced the fraud no more. Taking these things into consideration it would be well if the Kentuckians were to find a man for Senator whose notions of party fealty and personal purity are rather more pronounced.

Charles S. Wolfe, the independent Republican candidate for State treasurer is "a reformer." Those who favor him are supposed to be honest and to desire reform in the party. If Mr. Wolfe believes that a majority of his party is in favor of honesty and reform, he knows less about its composition than he ought to do, considering his lifelong membership. The day after the election Mr. Wolfe can tell how much honesty, how much desire for reform and how much independence there is in the Republican party.

At a meeting of the senatorial delegates of the Twenty-seventh district at Sunbury, last Friday, John H. Oaks, of Union county, was elected to represent the district, with instructions for Colonel S. C. Dissinger, of Sunbury, for State Treasurer. Resolutions were passed strongly endorsing Colonel Dissinger.

Annex-Senator Mitchell is "solid for Mulhooley" and against Mr. Wolfe. This is the basest kind of ingratitude, for had it not been for Charles S. Wolfe's vigorous fight against Oliver, Mr. Mitchell would never have been United States Senator.

The Governor of Michigan has issued a proclamation to the people of the United States, appealing for aid for the sufferers by the forest fires. Thousands of persons are destitute and suffering, some are helpless through injuries and some are blind. Liberal responses have been made in the various cities and towns throughout the country.

Recent dispatches indicate a critical state of affairs in Southern Arizona. The Indians are committing outrages and the white settlers are exasperated, troops are marching to the front with all expedition, and a war of extermination is probable. It looks as though the Apaches would be wiped out.

The Philadelphia Times is of opinion that President Arthur's first duty is to call an extra session of the Senate at once, in order that a President of that body may be appointed. If Mr. Arthur should die before next December the country would be without a lawful Chief Magistrate. The contingency is possible but not probable.

Mr. S. D. McDonald of Lewisburg, is much opposed to Wolfe's candidacy for State Treasurer and announces in print that he has "always recognized the fact that his mental structure was insecure and that he was most remarkable for his want of judgment and common sense." Now who vouches for Mr. McDonald's possession of those admirable qualities in which he thinks Mr. Wolfe deficient? We have heard of Wolfe, but who is McDonald.

A VERY LIVELY MAYOR.

A Louisville Courier-Journal special dispatch from Frankfort, Ky., says: A few weeks since the city council raised the circus license from $35 to $70. This Adam Forepaugh, the well known circus proprietor, refused to pay, and rented grounds just out of the city. The council then passed an ordinance prohibiting him from unloading in the city. An injunction was obtained, and an order served on Mayor Taylor restraining him from interfering with the unloading of the show. This order Mayor Taylor refused to obey, and with the police endeavored to stop the unloading. Sheriff Hawkins, seeing he was powerless to enforce the order of the court, called on the governor for aid. He promptly ordered Captain Price to report to the Sheriff with the McCreery Guards. This he did, and when the militia arrived at the depot Mayor Taylor still refused to allow them to unload, and a riot was imminent. He said he would shoot the first man who attempted to take a wagon from the train. He was carried off by force from the scene, and the street taken possession of by the soldiers. The cars were then unloaded and a parade took place. The military remained on the ground until the circus left town.

WOLFE POPULAR IN COLUMBIA.

BLOOMSBURG, September 15.—Of the Republicans of this county about one-third of the managers are office-holders and their adherents. This year there is a dismal break in their ranks. If Wolfe makes a personal canvass in the county he can get half the Republican vote, unless Cameron greases the machine better than now. Wolfe served in the army in this county against the Fishing Creek Confederacy.

The above dispatch to the Philadelphia Times seems intended, and no doubt will have the effect of putting all the republicans in this county fully in support of Wolfe. That he was a soldier and fought "against the Fishing-creek Confederacy" would seem to be qualifications as a candidate, altogether superior to those of Baily. The latter only had a little something to do down south, but Wolfe, no doubt, will come back during the campaign to gather the sheaves, the seed for which he sowed so gallantly, long ago. Now is the time for the republican-stay-at-homes to pay a debt of gratitude which they have so long protested that they owed to the Fishingcreek army of occupation, individually as well as collectively. Of course Baily will get no votes in Columbia county. There will be a republican stampede to the den of the Wolfe, and there will be another slaughter of the sheep and calves and pigs to keep up the army until after the election.

A WORD FOR MR. PALMER.

Shortly before the Republican State Convention, the Wilkes-Barre Record had a vigorous article in which it supported The Press and went beyond it in warning the party leaders against their methods of management. It pointed out the repeated wrongs they had perpetrated, and declared that the "party patience is already very nearly exhausted, and these leaders should be very careful how they trifle with it."

Suddenly the Record underwent a remarkable change. It assailed The Press for the very course which it had pronounced an urgent public duty. It began to defend and support the leaders whom it had denounced a few days before, and it is now engaged every day in eating its own words, stultifying itself and aspersing those whose Republicanism is as true and whose earnestness in this campaign is as great as its own.

It was the general impression that Attorney General Palmer was the author of the article which appeared in the Record of August 27. It bore internal evidence of coming from his pen. In view of this and of some other facts Mr. Palmer was credited with favoring the nomination of Senator Davies, and there was some surprise when he turned up at Harrisburg as the champion and mouthpiece of the machine.

Is it true that, following the same policy of subservience which he exhibited at Harrisburg, he is writing the articles which now appear in the Record? And is the explanation to be found in the fact that he has suddenly become concerned lest there should be a public arraignment of the Pardon Board, and of his particular party in it? That is not the only chapter of interest in the recent history of this State. Does Mr. Palmer want the veil lifted from that meeting in Harrisburg where the opinion of the Attorney General on the salary question was devised and where the motives for it were developed?

The above article is taken from the Philadelphia Press of Saturday last. Although Mr. Palmer undoubtedly does not "want the veil lifted," it is just as certainly true that the great majority of the citizens of Pennsylvania are extremely anxious to have it done. The Press will confer a great public service by lifting the veil without delay.

The Welshmen of Luzerne county were strongly in favor of Davies for State Treasurer and do not take kindly to the candidate the machine has provided. In consequence they threaten to bolt and support Wolfe. This is a cheerful state of affairs for the contemplation of Governor Hoyt and Attorney General Palmer, both of whom live in the county.

The out-buildings of John Rider, in Franklin township, were destroyed by fire on Saturday night last. The house narrowly escaped. Capt. J. B. Robison who lives near, saw the flames and went to the assistance of his neighbor, and rendered valuable aid in saving the property. The out-kitchen and smoke house were burned.

Vennor, the weather prophet, has been peculiarly unfortunate in his predictions of late, and has lost standing in the community. He prophesied wet weather after the 15th inst., and it is very evident that we have not had anything like dampness. He thinks that in October there is likely to be "too much rain," and that sleet and snow will fall early with sharp frosts.

The captain of Co. D, Danville, denies that the men of his command behaved in a disorderly manner at Shickshinny when returning from the encampment at Wilkes Barre. He says the rowdies belonged to some other organization We are glad to know that Danville was not disgraced by such unsoldierlike and ungentlemanly behavior.

The recent showers barely wet the surface of the ground. Winter wheat should have been sowed by this time, but there are very few acres even plowed for its reception. Unless drenching rain soon falls, the farmers will begin to despair, as it is useless either to plow or sow grain so long as the earch is in its present parched condition. The duration of the drought is amazing.

At the Sunbury fair to be held on the 4th, 5th and 6th of October, it is proposed to have a greased pig for the boys to catch. The President of the Society advertises for an animal and thus describes it: "The hog must be thin, slim, elastic and strong, and have a good set of running gears. The snout should be lengthy, well drawn out, thin and turned up a little at the 'rooter,' and it ought to be long enough to reach the third potato row through any fence. He should be able to to trot or run at the rate of 2:40 when pushed by the boys." We do not believe that Columbia county farmers raise that kind of stock, but if any one of them has such a "critter," this is a good chance to get rid of it.

The Prohibitionists of the county held a Convention last Saturday in Correll's building, Second street. James Lake, Democratic candidate for Associate Judge, was endorsed and Peter Baldy also named for the same office. E. M. Knorr was selected for Prothonotary, R. H. Ringler for Register and Recorder and E. B. Brown for Treasurer, both Republican candidates, were endorsed, and Richard Whitmoyer was nominated for County Commissioner. The Convention was a very quiet one, in fact, few people knew that such an event had taken place.

A bad smash-up occurred on the L. & B. R. R. at Briarcreek on Tuesday morning last. A freight train was running on a switch and some of the cars were still on the main track, when another freight train came dashing along at about eighteen miles an hour. The engine struck the rear of the train and some twenty cars were more or less damaged. The engine was nearly demolished and it is said cannot be repaired for less than $5,000. Fortunately no lives were lost. A dense fog prevailed at the time and the engineer of the second freight could not see the train passing on to the switch.

On Wednesday afternoon, members of the Rescue and Friendship fire companies with the Bloomsburg and Espy cornet bands marched through town on their way to Rupert. There they took a special train and went to Reading, to take part in the grand firemen's parade on Thursday. The Rescue company, 12 strong, was preceded by the home band with 14 members and a drum major. The Friendship boys were 20 in number and headed by the Espy band of 16 members. This is a comparatively new musical organization, and bids fair to be a success, as their playing on Wednesday was heartily praised. The hose carriages of the two companies were sent to Reading on Tuesday.

At the session of the United States District Court, held in Williamsport last week, the time was principally occupied by petty cases of passing counterfeit coin and illegal sales of liquor. Most of them were of too little moment to excite interest. John Burger, who lives near Wilkes-Barre, was tried for illicit distilling. His testimony was of the most amusing character. He said that the United States officials found an old kettle in his chicken-coop, thrown there with other old iron, and having found a tub of soft soap, they declared it was sour mash, and had him arrested and locked up in jail. The jury convicted him, but the judge evidently did not consider the crime a heinous one, as he imposed the lowest sentence permitted by law. It would seem as if the government detectives could find bigger game than old women and ignorant men who sell a quart or two of liquor or pass a bad half dollar.

A FUND FOR MRS. GARFIELD.

Soon after President Garfield was shot, Mr. Cyrus W. Field of New York, suggested the raising of a fund for the benefit of Mrs. Garfield and the children. This met with popular favor and already some $180,000 has been collected. Now that the Preresident is dead, it is proposed to increase this amount—perhaps to half a million. Subscriptions are pouring in from all parts of the country, and there are undoubtedly many citizens of Columbia County who are willing to subscribe to such a fund. To save trouble, we are willing to receive sums of money, publish the names of subscribers in the COLUMBIAN, and forward the amount received to A. J. Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia bankers, who have consented to act as agents. Small contributions will be acknowledged as promptly as those of greater size.

THE FAIR.

The showy posters for the County Fair have been received and distributed through the county, and will, without doubt, add to the interest already felt in the exhibition. With favorable weather, a most successful and pleasurable week may be counted upon. The premiums offered are liberal, the novelties presented are interesting and amusing, and the arrangements for exhibitors and spectators are complete. From present indications there will be a large and fine list of exhibits. It is much to be hoped that there will be heavy falls of rain before the opening of the fair, as the roads are in a very dusty condition and exceedingly unpleasant for driving. Unless unforeseen contingencies arise, we expect to see the grounds crowded with satisfied spectators.

CONDENSED HISTORY OF BLOOMSBURG.

We have on our table, a copy of the condensed History of Berwick, Bloomsburg, Catawissa, Danville and some other places, compiled and published by D. M. Kurtz, and neatly printed by the Catawissa News Item. We are unable to speak of the accuracy of dates and facts. The compiler has evidently spent much time in the preparation of the book, but taken as a whole it is only an advertising speculation. We commend the enterprise of the publisher, but we cannot see the wisdom of those who have paid their money for this style of advertising. About one hundred dollars have been carried away from this town, for which those who contributed will never receive any perceptible benefit. The same amount of money invested in advertising in home papers would have been a much better investment.

OUTRAGEOUS.

The failure of the morning mails has come to be an intolerable nuisance, and the people of Bloomsburg demand that the post-office department shall make a change. If the L. & B. R. R. will not make such arrangements as will get the mails here, the government authorities should at once take measures to compel the fulfillment of the contract. The road ought not to be paid for such slovenly work. Since our last issue one mail was not received until the following day, when of course the newspapers were of no value whatever. The banks, merchants, professional and business men are seriously inconvenienced and injured by these delays, and it is full time something decisive was done. Annul the contract with the L. & B. R. R. if nothing else can be done and let the mails come over the Catawissa road. As managed now, the mail carrying is a nuisance of the worst kind and will no longer be calmly tolerated. The superintendent of the railway mail service will, we trust, give this matter immediate attention and afford relief to a suffering community. Pack horses would be preferable to the present carriers.

"Ladies highly praise Malt Bitters."

FOR SALE.—Fifty shares of water stock and eight shares of gas stock. Will be sold in single shares or all together, to suit purchasers. Inquire at this office. tf

ALMOST A FIRE.

On Friday last, at about half past ten o'clock in the morning, Mrs. I. S. Kuhn while in her house on Centre street, heard a crackling noise, as if caused by flames. She stepped out of doors and on looking up saw that the roof of the back kitchen was on fire. She sent one of her children to the neighboring house of Mr. John Wolf, and a daughter of that gentleman dragged a length of hose to the endangered premises and soon a stream of water was thrown upon the roof. Mr. Gus Williams, who lives across the street, heard the alarm and ran to render such aid as was necessary. A second hose was attached to the pave wash in front of the house and this afforded an ample supply of water. The incipient fire was promptly extinguished, before any material damage was done. Our readers should exercise great watchfulness, during the continuance of the drought, as a spark falling upon dry shingles might produce very serious results.

KEEPING WINTER APPLES.

Several statements have been recently published of the entire success which has attended the keeping of winter apples under water. The experiment is worth repeating, observing the precaution of maintaining the temperature nearly down to the freezing point. The advantages of this practice are, first, the exclusion of air currents, and, secondly, a temperature not liable to fluctuations, or which cannot quickly change. So long as the water can be kept quite cold, the fruit will be likely to remain sound; if too warm the skin will be likely to swell and crack by over-absorption of moisture. Grapes have been successfully kept in the same way, the water remaining near freezing. A damp cellar for fruit on shelves is better than one so dry as to cause shrivelling, provided it is cold. If warm, decay would be likely to commence soon.

DISORDERLY.

The members of the Town Council ought to know. If they do not, that the disorder prevailing on the main street last Saturday night, was simply outrageous. Men under the influence of liquor swaggered, cursed and quarreled without even a rebuke from the police. In front of the Court House for a couple of hours, angry and drunken fellows indulged in profane and indecent language, shouted in stentorian tones and challenged each other to fight. Young women passing along the street, on their way home from the band festival, were shocked and disgusted. Is there a police force in Bloomsburg? If not, the Council had best appoint one without delay, and let the officers be men who will do their duty. The town has established a reputation for order and decency, which Saturday night's exhibition will go far to destroy. We are thus explicit about the matter, because a Town Council so careful of public morality as to prohibit the sale of cigars and soda water, cannot, we feel sure, overlook grave offences against public order and morality. It is much to be hoped that there will be no more such boisterous and disgraceful conduct to chronicle, but that the police will manfully enforce the law.

VETERANS' RE-UNION.

The re-union of veteran soldiers of Luzerne, Lackawanna, Wyoming, Wayne and Susquehanna counties was held in Wilkes-Barre on Friday last. The city was gaily decorated with flags and bunting and thousands of sight-seers filled the streets. Grand Army Posts were in line from Scranton, Plymouth, White Haven, Carbondale and Wilkes-Barre, and delegations from Pittston, Kingston and Scranton. After parading through the principal streets, the veterans proceeded to a grove on the river bank opposite the city. An address of welcome was delivered by Major Brodrick and Judge Rice made an eloquent and spirited speech. He was followed by Judge E. L. Dana and Gen. McCartney. Resolutions were adopted condemning the shooting of the President, and regretting the death of Gen. Barnside. Letters were read from Gen. Hancock and Governor Hoyt, who were unable to be present.

The following officers were elected: President, F. J. Amsden, Scranton, Commander of Griffin Post; Secretary, Capt. J. W. Howell, Scranton; Treasurer, Capt. P. DeLacy, Scranton, President of the Veterans' Association of that place.

The day was most enjoyably spent in picnic style, and in the evening the grove was brilliantly illuminated.

BOHRSBURG RUMORS

On Monday the 5th inst., Mrs. Lana Chrispin, an aged widow, living in the family of Jacob Shoemaker, in Fishingcreek township, vaccinated herself, using a pin for that purpose, with vaccine matter from the arm of a neighbor's child. In a short time her arm became very bad, medical aid was called, but nothing could be done to benefit her and she died on Friday last. She was a member of the M. E. church, and was very highly esteemed.

Miss Maggie Patton, since the amputation of her foot is getting along quite well.

On Sunday last, Norman and Elizabeth Kline, buried their little daughter, Sarah E. aged 4 years, 6 months and 24 days.

The following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted at a special meeting of the literary societies of the Bloomsburg State Normal School:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, whose hand we recognize in all things, and to whose voice we humbly and submissively bow, to call from us our late beloved President, James A. Garfield, therefore, be it

Resolved, By us as societies, that by his death the nation has lost a wise and Christian ruler, whose dignity of character and resignation to the Divine will, command our respect as a nation, and that of the world at large, and will ever keep his memory enshrined in our hearts.

Resolved, That we are deeply sensible of the great loss which the bereaved family and aged mother have sustained in the removal of an affectionate husband, father and son, and tender them our warmest sympathies in their deep affliction, committing them to the care of Him, who hath said, "I will be a father to the fatherless and a husband to the widow," and pray that He may minister unto them the richest consolations of His grace in Christ Jesus.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the records of the Philologian and Calpian societies of the Normal School, and published in the county papers and that their respective halls be draped in mourning for thirty days.

BLOOMSBURG IN MOURNING.

The announcement of the President's death was received with profound sorrow in Bloomsburg, and instant arrangements were made to give outward expression to the popular grief. The bells were tolled, and in a very brief space of time the greater number of buildings upon the main street were draped in black or displayed flags looped with crape. Four large flags were hung across the street—in front of the Exchange Hotel, Central Hotel, Moyer's drug store and I. W. Hartman's store. The buildings most elaborately draped were, the Exchange Hotel, G. A. Clark's book store, W. C. McKinney's, Moyer Bro's., I. W. McKelvy's, I. W. Hartman's, J. J. Brower's, D. Lowenberg's, Holmes & Schuyler's and N. J. Hendershott's. The columns in front of the Court House were encircled with bread bands of black and draped flags were placed in the posts that uphold the lamps. Business was suspended during the morning and the streets were filled with people discussing the sad event. In the evening a meeting of citizens was held at the Court House. It was at first intended to meet out of doors, but it grew dark so early that an adjournment was had to the court room, which was speedily filled. A large proportion of those present were ladies. Hon. William Elwell was called to the chair and made a brief but feeling address stating that the object of the meeting was to express the profound sorrow of the community for the calamity which had befallen the nation. Rev. D. J. Waller, Jr., offered a fervent prayer for the afflicted family of the President, and for the people of the country whose Chief Magistrate had been taken from them under circumstances so terrible. On motion the chairman appointed Messrs. J. G. Freeze, L. S. Winterstein, C. G. Barkley, J. C. Brown and G. E. Elwell to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting. The committee retired, and during their absence Col. Samuel Knorr spoke briefly of the President's death. He said that there were times in the lives of nations, as of individuals, when it was best that the burden of sorrow should be borne in silence. His remarks were well expressed and appropriate. Col. Freeze, of the committee on resolutions, reported the following, which were adopted unanimously:

At a public meeting of the citizens of the Town of Bloomsburg, at the Court House, on Tuesday evening, September 20th, assembled on the occasion of the death of James A. Garfield, late President of the United States, it was Resolved, That we deeply mourn the untimely death of President James A. Garfield and that we tender our heart-felt sympathies to the afflicted wife, and the members of his family.

Resolved, That we recommend to our community the observance of the day of his funeral by a total suspension of business.

Capt. C. B. Brockway offered the following order, which was read by the chairman:

Headquarters Society of the Soldiers and Sailors of the War of 1861, of Columbia county.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Sept. 20th, 1881.
General Order No. 7.

As a mark of respect to our murdered President and late Commander-in-Chief, Gen James A. Garfield, all honorably discharged Soldiers and Sailors of this county are requested to wear as a badge of mourning, until after his interment, a badge of crape on the left arm above the elbow. Please notify our comrades.

C. B. BROCKWAY, Secretary. S. KNORR, President.

The meeting then adjourned. During its continuance there was a marked degree of quiet decorum, and at the close those present left the room speaking in low tones and evidently feeling the solemnity of the occasion.

ROAD LAWS.

The following decisions of the Supreme Court relative to public roads, will be found of interest, not only to lawyers, but to general readers. A knowledge of the points stated in these decisions will save much useless labor and unnecessary expense in laying the matter before the Courts:

The omission of the Quarter Sessions to fix the width of a public road, is fatal to the proceedings. 3 W. & S 39; 1 Pennsylvania S. R. 356.

A public road cannot be laid along side of and adjoining another public road, so as to increase the width of both together more than fifty feet. 4 W. & S. 39.

A person, though a petitioner for the laying out of a road, may, being the owner of the lands over which the road is laid out, obtain damages. 8 Watts, 174.

A road through the lands of a minor ought not to be laid out without notice to the guardian of the minor. 1 Penn's. S. & R. 353.

An order to view and vacate a public road is not a matter of right in the petitioners, but of discretion in the Court of Quarter Sessions. 8 Watts, 17 2, 176.

A draft of the road is unnecessary. 9 Barr 85. But a report changing the location of a road must be accompanied by a draft. 10 S. & R. 120.

Viewers are to report compensation, not for taking the soil, but for the right of passing over it. 8 W. 177; 6 B. 511; 3 P. R., 139; 3 B. 153, 375.

It will be presumed that parties not mentioned in the report have sustained no damages. 2 S. & R. 277.

The award of damages does not bear interest. 2 Barr 340,

It is the duty of viewers to take into consideration the possibility of the road reverting back to the proprietor, by being vacated at some future day; the right left to him over and under the highway in subservience to the public passage; and also the advantages derived by the owner from the road passing through his premises. 8 W. 177.

Whatever may be the nature of the loss or damage which the owner of the land sustains, he must be compensated for it. 8 W. 177.

A tenant for years is the owner of an estate in the land, within the meaning of the law, and entitled to recover damages for an injury to his term. Allegheny and Perrysville Turnpike Company vs. Bruce, Supreme Court, Pittsburg, Legal Journal, Sept. 24, 1859.

A DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT.

There is a dangerous counterfeit in circulation, purporting to be "Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer." The strongest evidence of the great value of "Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer" is the fact that parties know-ing its efficacy try to imitate it. Each bottle of the genuine has a "fac simile" of the signature of "D. R. Baker"—the manufacturer—blown in the glass; and the "Restorer" is an clear and harmless as water, while it possesses all the component properties necessary to restore life, vigor, growth, and color to the hair. BARBED WIRE are undoubtedly the cheapest and most durable fence made, is not effected by fire, wind or flood, does not cause snow drifts, takes fewer posts and stock cannot push it down. Our wire is four pointed, is made of two strands of number 12 best galvanized steel wire twisted together just enough to allow for contraction and expansion in Summer and Winter, barbs are fastened every seven inches. The use of barbed wire is no longer an experiment, as last year over one hundred thousand miles were put up. We believe our wire to be the best and cheapest now manufactured because it is made of the best steel wire and runs 15 feet to the pound having the greatest strength and visibility with the least weight of any made. Put up on spools of about 100 rods weighing about 100 pounds. Price per pound 11 cents by the spool, less quantities 111 cents per pound.

Milking Cows.

Cows are generally milked twice a day, sometimes oftener, but twice is enough, unless the cow steals her milk, or the udder is found of insufficient capacity to hold it. The time required to milk will vary with the circumstances. When and where milking is done for transportation to some distant market early milking in the morning is necessary. It should be done regularly, whether it is earlier or later. As a rule no milker should be required to milk more than twelve cows morning and evening; some can milk fifteen cows, but generally one's arms and hands get tired by the time twelve cows are milked. The time for milking a cow must vary according to conditions; one cow may be milked in four minutes, while another may require fifteen or twenty minutes in order to be milked thoroughly clean. If milking is not carefully, regularly and thoroughly done, the quality of milk produced will be daily diminished. If any is left in the udder it tends to dry the cow or shrink her daily yield of milk. Great care must therefore be exercised in this regard. The strippings increase the quantity of cream not only, but the flavor and quality of the butter also. Read the following statements; "We filled several large teacups of the same size," said Dr. Anderson, of Bath, England, "commencing with milk at the beginning of the milking and others at regular intervals, till the last, which was filled with the strippings or strokings. These were severally weighed so as to ascertain that the quantity of it was the same, and after repeating this experiment a number of times with different cows, the results were stated as follows: The quantity of cream for the first draw cup was in every case much inferior and smaller than that from the cup last drawn, those between giving less or more as they were nearer the beginning or the end. In the case of some cows the variation of cream from the first cup to the last was in the proportion of sixteen to one. The difference in quality was much greater than in quantity. In the first cup the cream was thin, and in the last cup the cream was thicker and richer in color, more so than any other. The difference in the quality of the milk that remained after the cream was off was greater than either in respect to the quantity and quality of the cream. The milk of the first cup was thin and bluish, as if a large proportion was water, while that of the last cup was of a thick consistency and of yellow color, more like that of cream than of milk, both in appearance and taste. A little mess fed to a cow while milking has a good effect, and she meanwhile yields her milk more freely. As nearly as possible, observe twelve hours between milking, a rule of more importance than at first might seem to a careless milker. The beating of a cow with a milking stool, or kicking with your feet, should never be allowed.

Raise More Sheep.

The following extract from the Bucks County Intelligencer will apply with equal force to many places outside of Pennsylvania. There are sections in Bucks county where sheep husbandry could be profitably followed. This is more especially the case in the hilly districts skirting the river from Taylorsville up, and in the more hilly and rocky parts of Rockhill, Milford, Springfield and Haycock. Wherever the ground is rolling or hilly and dry, sheep will do excellently well, and may be raised quite profitably when the price of the wool and the mutton are considered. The greatest drawback is the number of dogs and their disposition to attack the sheep. But there are too many dogs and too few sheep; if the one kind of stock could be very largely thinned off, the other and much more profitable kind could be more successfully kept.

There are so few sheep in the country and so few people seem to be willing to keep and handle them that it will probably be a long time before much attention to them, even in districts where they would be remunerative and profitable. The steady advance in the price of meat will cause some farmers to look into mutton raising after a while because there is evidently a profit in it, and on steep, hilly rocky land there is more money in sheep than any kind of live stock on the farm, and much less work than in the dairy.

Buying a Horse.

In buying a horse, says "Turf, Field and Farm," look first to his head and eyes for signs of intelligence, temper, courage and honesty. Unless a horse has brains you cannot teach him to do anything well. If bad qualities prevail in a horse, education only serves to enlarge and intensify them. The head is the indicator of disposition in the horse. A square muzzle with large nostrils evidences an ample breathing apparatus and great lung power. Next, see that he is well cut under the jowl, with jaw bones broad and wide apart under the throttle. Breadth and fullness between the ears and eyes is always desirable. The eye should be full and hazle in color; ears small and thin and thrown well forward. The horse that turns his ears back until they almost meet at the point is not to be trusted. He is a biter or a kicker, and is sure to be vicious in other respects. A horse with a dashing face is cowardly, and a cowardly brute being naturally vicious, can never be trained to anything well. A horse with a rounding nose, tapering forehead and a broad, full place below the eyes is always treacherous and mischievous. Avoid a long-legged, stilty horse. Select one with a short, straight back and rump, withers high and sloping, well set back and broad, with good depth of chest, fore legs short, hind legs straight with the hocks low down, short pastern joints and a round, mulish foot By observing the above hints a horse may be selected that is graceful, good-natured, serviceable and a prize to the owner.

The Origin of Mustard.

Before the year 1729 mustard was little known at English tables. About this time an old woman of the name of Clements, residing in Durham, began to grind the seed in a mill and to pass the flour through several process es necessary to free it from its husks. She kept her secret to herself for many years, during which she sold quantities of mustard throughout the country, but especially in London. Here it was introduced to the Royal table, where it received the approval of George I. From the circumstance of Mrs. Clements being a resident at Durham, it obtained the name of Durham mustard. The manufacture of mustard consisted in simply grinding the seeds into very fine flour, a bushel of seed weighing sixty pounds yielding twenty-eight pounds to thirty pounds of flour of mustard. A false taste, however, arose for having an improved color, and the flour of mustard was introduced from which the oil had been abstracted. Hence other materials, such as capsicum powder, turmeric, terra alba, wheaten flour, etc., are added to bring up the flavor and to increase the bulk.—Grocers' Journal.

How a Woman Does It.

Some crusty old curmudgeon thus tells how a woman goes to work to mail a letter. It is a libel on the sex. Some of the girls will make it red hot for him if he is discovered. Any day when you have time you can see how she does it by dropping into the postoffice. She arrives there with a letter in her hand. It is a sheet of note in a white envelope. She halts in front of the stamp window, opens her mouth to ask for a stamp, but suddenly darts away to see if she has made any errors in the names or dates. It takes her five minutes to make sure of this, and then she balances the letter on her finger, and the awful query arises in her mind: "Perhaps it is an overweight." She steps to the window and asks the clerk if he has a three-cent stamp, fearing he hasn't. She looks over every compartment in her portmonaie before she finds the change to pay for it. The fun commences as she gets the stamp. She fiddles around to one side, removes her gloves, closely inspects the stamp and hesitates whether to "lick it" or wet her finger. She finally concludes it would not be nice to show her tongue and wets her finger and passes it over envelope. She is so long picking up the stamp that the moisture is absorbed and the stamp slides off the envelope. She tries it twice more with like success, and getting desperate she gives the stamp a "lick" and it sticks. Then comes the sealing of the letter. She wets her finger again, but the envelope flies open, and, after three minutes' delay she has put her tongue along the streak of dried mucilage. She holds the letter a long time to make sure that the envelope is all right, and finally appears at the window and asks: "Three cents is enough, is it?" "Yes, ma'am." "This will go out to day?" "Certainly." Will it go to Chicago without the name of the county on?" "Just the same." "What time will it reach there?" "To-morrow morning." She sighs, turns the letter over and over, and finally asks: "Shall I drop it into one of those places there?" "Yes, ma'am." She walks up in front of the six orifices, closely scans each one of them, finally makes a choice and drops—no she doesn't. She stops to see where it will fall, pressing her face against the window until she flattens her nose out of shape, and she doesn't drop it where she intended to. She, however, releases it at last, looks down to make sure that it did not go on the floor, and turns away with a sigh of regret that she didn't take one more look at the superscription.

The Wood Floors of Russia.

The finest floors are said to be seen in Russia. For those of the highest grade tropical woods are exclusively employed. Fir and pine are never used as in consequence of their sticky character they attract and retain dirt and dust, and thereby soon become blackened. Pitch pine, too, is liable to shrink, even after being well seasoned. The mosaic wood floors in Russia are often of extraordinary beauty. One in the summer palace is of small squares of beauty, inlaid with mother of pearl. A considerable trade is done in Dantzic and Riga by exporting small blocks of oak for parquet floors. There is an active demand for these in France and Germany, but none in England.

If a smoker were to chew up his cigar and swallow it that would be a cigarette, wouldn't it?

The Railroad Restaurant.

"This is the porterhouse, is it?" asked the sad passenger, sitting at the corner table in the restaurant.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, with the weary air of a man who was tired of having to tell the same lie a thousand times a day, "porterhouse steak, sir, same as you ordered, sir."

"Do you cut porterhouse steak from between the horns this year?" asked the sad passenger, with the intonation of a man who wanted to know.

"Sir?" said the waiter.

"It seemed to be a trifle tenderer last year," the sad passenger went on, with the air of a tired man indulging in pleasant reminiscences of the past, "but I remember now: it was cut a trifle lower down then. Last year you cut your porterhouse steaks from the curl in the forehead and the sirloins from the shin But I think this comes from between the horns. I used to live in a boarding house where they cut the porterhouse between the horns, and this one reminds me of them. Animal dead this steak came from?"

"Dead," echoed the astonished waiter; "course, sir. He was butchered, sir."

"Butchered to make a Roman holiday," sighed the passenger. "He would be more likely to make a Roman swear. Well, it was time he was killed. He hadn't many more years to live on this earth. Ah, here is the brass tip from one of his horns. Dropped into the steak, no doubt, while you were slicing it off. What do you do with these steaks when the guests are through with them?"

The waiter looked puzzled. "Why, sir," he said, "they ain't nothing left of 'em, sir."

"Possible?" said the sad passenger; "what becomes of them?"

The waiter looked nervous. "What," he said; "the customers eat them up."

The sad passenger looked up with an air of interest. "Incredible," he exclaimed; "cannot accept your statement without proof. They may hide them under their chairs, or secrete them in their napkins, or they may carry them away in their pockets to throw at burglars. Here, let's see one of them eat this, and I will believe you. Trust me, good waiter, I—"

But the waiter pointed to a printed placard inscribed: "Positively no trust," and went to the cashier's desk to tell the boss to look out for that man at the corner table, as he didn't seem to be satisfied with his steak and asked for trust.

No show at all: Gabe Snodgrass recently applied to Rev. Aminidab Bledso, of Blue Light Austin Tabernacle, for some pecuniary assistance. "I jess can't do it," replied Parson Bledso. "I has to sport my pore ole mudder. "But yer pore ole mudder says you don't do nuffin for her." "Well, den, of I don't do nuffin for my poor ole mudder what's de use of an outsider like you tryin' ter make me shell out!"—Texas Siftings.

A TRAVELER'S STORY.

After spending months at European and American watering places and thousands of dollars looking for health, I returned home disheartened and wretched. I had consulted the best physicians and traveled far and near without benefit and expected to die. A friend urged a trial of Parker's Ginger Tonic. Three bottles and careful diet have worked wonders and brought me excellent health and spirits, and you may publish my experience for the benefit of similar sufferers.—A Cincinnati lady.

LEGAL BLANKS,

ALWAYS ON HAND

AT THIS OFFICE.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Diseases, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, and thus preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.
